Premier Seeks Better Data For Americans

MONTREAL, April 15.—(CP)—Prime Minister Mackenzie King said in an interview when he arrived in Montreal yesterday en route to Washington Tuesday that he will take up the matter of providing him with more information in the United States.

He was asked if he believed something could be done to stop the flow of Canadian citizens to the United States. "That is one of the matters I will look into down there," he said. "I think every Canadian job should take the front pages when they entered the country."

Montreal Star reporter on the course of the peace campaign and said he hoped to vote. "I really hope very much that my friends in Quebec will see fit to withdraw their support of the National War Taxation Bill," he said.

Canada Gives Britain Gift Of 20 Million

OTTAWA, April 15.—(CP)—The first payment of $1,000,000 given to Great Britain was turned over to the British account in the Bank of Canada last week, a finance department official said Tuesday.

HAPPY TO OBLIGE.—He asserted he was "happy to oblige" when Attorney General Biddle if he later invited him to Washington to answer charges made against him in the British press.

Mr. Collier, another owner, publisher of Social Justice. However, if Attorney General Biddle insisted on examining him, he would be compelled to defend himself on the property of Social Justice. I will not only be happy to do so but will challenge him to the maximum to do so," he said.

Walker acted on the recommendation of Attorney General Frank Murphy to make public an exchange of letters in which Biddle charged that examination of his newspaper was "unjustifiable."

Mr. Collier said he would be compelled to defend himself on the property of Social Justice.

ENEMY PROPAGANDA.

Canadian Justice reproduces in this country," the attorney general said. "But not, as some believed, of the entire Pacific. Prime Minister Currie of Australia is today commanding in that area."

The army spokesman's seemingly conflicting statement came down to earth when MacArthur said he had been given command, he is uncertain about his powers and jurisdiction.

It was added, however, that records do not disclose that any American soldier has been killed or wounded in the Philippines.

MacArthur wants assurance of sufficient men, planes and supplies before embarking on an offensive.

WANTS OFFENSIVE.

MacArthur has such an offensive. He so announced on his arrival in Australia from the Philippines. In one of his first statements he said he had been given command and material to do the job.

MacArthur's difficulties, it is suggested, are British and French troops are linked with broader strategic and political master in which MacArthur is not directly involved." The dispatch added.

THREE HILLS.—First threshing of the season was done last week on the farm of Mr. R. Gaume, president of the Vermillion Legion, re-elected president; Mrs. H. George, vice-president; Mrs. Maxine, treasurer; Mrs. J. Blawie, reporter; Mr. H. C. Morris, chairman of the Chevrons, assisted by the hostess.

CLOSE MAILED

U.S. Bans Paper Founded By Father Coughlin For Attacks On War Effort

WASHINGTON, April 15.—(AP)—Social Justice, a weekly newspaper founded at Royal Oak, Mich., by Father Charles E. Coughlin, was excluded from the mails temporarily Tuesday night and a hearing was ordered to determine whether it should be barred altogether for alleged seditious utterances.

Postmaster General Frank Walker announced that the hearing would be held April 22. Pending the hearing, the paper will be held at Royal Oak with hold to publication from the post office until the hearing determines its "maliciousness."

Informed of the postmaster general's action, Father Coughlin said in a statement issued yesterday that "the Jews and Communists have been a great hindrance to our defense and to our war effort."

Looking them Over

by JACK KELLY

THESE days sportswriters are being called savages more thoroughly than ever before as the sportsmen Anglo-Americans consider that athletics should or should not be encouraged in view of the war.

The current issue of Esquire magazine carries a poll of public opinion on this subject which is highly interesting.

Approximately 96 per cent of those questioned were convinced that training in competitive sports common to North America is more likely to develop a type of courage that will fight to the bitter end and come back from adversity than the mass military training of the Axis nations.

The United Nations have tossed the rules of polite and honorable war in the waste basket following the treacherous and ruthless tactics of the Axis mob, but the vast majority of Americans are sure that this will not result in a lower standard of sportsmanship in the U.S. & after the war.

That particular question in Esquire's poll indirectly answers the problem of whether or not all-out war is going to result in a wave of post-war violence in civil life. Over 99 per cent of people do think our fighting men will deteriorate from post-war standards of honesty, sportsmanship and decency.

In Sport Worthwhile?

FOR over two years now we have been wrestling with the question of whether or not the continuing of amateur sports aids in bolstering public morale during war pressure. Ninety-six per cent of American belief is sports continue for the sake of morale.

General MacArthur is one who takes part in the Esquire poll. He declares that competitive athletics are invaluable in the development of good soldiers. On the other hand, General Johnson Hargan says: "There is no connection between sports and courage, a quality which is found in animals and insects as well as men."

About 24 per cent of those questioned in this poll stated that their interest in sport had declined since the war warmed up, but the other 76 per cent remained just as enthusiastic as ever. This is one of the questions to which yesterday's big attendance at major league openings gave a similar answer.

Favor Headgear For Boxers

ONE question and the response thereto is most satisfying to me. The boxer who wears protective headgear in his early days, I do, and he has in all boxing contests as another step in the same direction that in the past brought boxing gloves? Seventy-four per cent replied "yes" to this.

Some day, perhaps sooner than expected, all fighters will enter the ring with this protective headgear, and then will end once and for all the tragedy of fighters going "slap-happy" from blows around the brain. Such headgear will not prevent a knockout being scored by a blow to the chin, heart or solar plexus. It will merely save the delicate brain from unnecessary pounding.

I am still hoping that the Western Canada Boxing and Wrestling Federation will seize the opportunity to pioneer a new and humanitarian move in boxing by making the wearing of protective headgear compulsory in all bouts staged under its sanction.

Pastor's Next Fight For Third-Louis-Bout Program

BY JACK GUENTHER

NEW YORK, April 15.—(UPI)—The honorable Robin Pastor—president, vice-president, secretary, treasurer and only member of the "I want to fight Joe Louis a third time" club—has departed on another expedition to the midlands for the express purpose of reaffirming his ranking as the second best heavyweight boxer in the world.

With the taciturn James J. Jimmy) Bivins, his ringing bells, blowing bags and the rest of the band of head of the parade, the Pastor entourage was last seen casting anchor in Cleveland. In that city the Honorable Robin went to pick up where he left off with Lem Franklin a few weeks ago. This is the third time the two scowls with on Jimmy Bivins.

The pleasure of meeting young Mr. Bivins never seems mind-blowing. I am told that he is a son, youth, and a boy who is rapidly rising in his trade. If the information is correct, then the advice to Mr. Bivins is that he will be both happier and healthier on Saturday night when he keeps his scheduled date on Friday evening.

This advice is not to be interpreted as an assertion against Bivins' reliability as a prize fighter. The boy must be temperament to have the qualities of a champion. Hell, December, still has trouble getting around the golf course. What playfully does he do with the ball? He'll drop it in the hole, then pick up the ball from the tee.

"What is your reaction to the proposed classes to be held throughout the city in air raid protection training for civilians?"

THE ANSWERS

HOB. D. STEPHENSON, commanding officer, Royal Canadian Air Raid Protection Service, said that there is a real need for such classes, particularly in the city where there are large blocks of residences "housing many people."

Mr. A. STEPHANE DUNN, commanding officer, A.W.S.C. in its voluntary organization for women, is also of the opinion that there is a real need for such classes, particularly in the city where there are large blocks of residences "housing many people."

JACK WEBER, president of Junior Chamber of Commerce, said that there is a real need for the air raid protection training, and that it will be very valuable, and that it is certainly no harm in having it.

He touched on such points as unemployment, juvenile delinquency, representation of the church, etc., and concluded that the only sound basis for the discussion of any of them was a Christian basis.

David Young presided at the meeting.

Dorothy Dix Says:

Dearest Dorothy Dix: I am a girl of 18 going with a boy of 21. I have given him my heart, my mind, my body. I find that I cannot do it because there is another boy whom I love with all my heart. I have been with this boy since we were children and went to school together. But this second boy has no money while the other boy has. My mother insists that I marry him because the money. The boy... Dorothy Dix, love her a job, pay enough for me to marry. What shall I do?—BROKEN-HEARTED GIRL.

Answer: Don't let your mother force or persuade you to marry him if you don't love him. It takes a lot of love to make any woman endure all the hardships he has to offer. If she loves him, she will be happy and glad she did it. Without love she is always unhappy and she will be unhappy in marriage a purgatory, instead of the Heaven on earth it should be.

And the unwiving wife is always a bad wife because she vents her own misery on her unfortunate husband. She does nothing worth while to try to make him happy, or even to make him a comfortable home.

Dear Dorothy: I am 20 years old and hold a regular position, but long ago I happened to mention to my parents that I was reading a book on sex. They were shocked at me about it and act as if I had disgraced myself. Tell the other boy that you are not going to marry him. It is important to keep this marriage in the strings.

They were shocked at me about it and act as if I had disgraced myself. Tell the other boy that you are not going to marry him. It is important to keep this marriage in the strings.

Answer: Certainly not. Many a girl's lack of knowledge about sex has brought about her downfall. Ignorance is not innocence.

Your Baby And Mine

Little things baffle mothers. These important matters in the doctor's office, but who wants to bother the busy "practitioner" to ask him? Grandmother, too, is often little help, right when one says it is and the other says it isn't right to have a baby. Right?

Mrs. L. O. says her baby is the only infant in the whole family and she is doing everything worth while to try to make him happy, or even to make him a comfortable home.

OTTAWA, April 15—(CP)—Ministers of National Health and Welfare and Conservative Leader Hanson that gasoline rationing restrictions be lifted in April 15, so that day-in entitles to every consideration.

A child who doesn't attack too much of himself as relatively unimportant into a real, unselfish adult.

They children may be quickly taught to acknowledge an introduction. Little boys may be taught to remove their hats when girls may say "Hello." A child old enough to talk may be taught to say, "How do you do?"

A child who is entitled to take care of his own possessions, and to have respect for the possessions of others. He should be taught to be generous by sharing his things with others.

He can be taught to think of himself as relatively unimportant into a real, unselfish adult.

JAPS FORCED TO PAY HEAVY PRICE

First Photos From Bataan Peninsula Show Desolation

Japanese bombs and shells destroyed this unidentified village on Bataan Peninsula during the months the greatly outnumbered American and Filipino soldiers withstood all the invaders could throw at them. The photo, among the first to reach the United States, was released by the War Department in the wake of a communiqué announcing Bataan was "probably lost." Secretary of War Stimson announced in Washington that the defenders totalled 36,800 men.

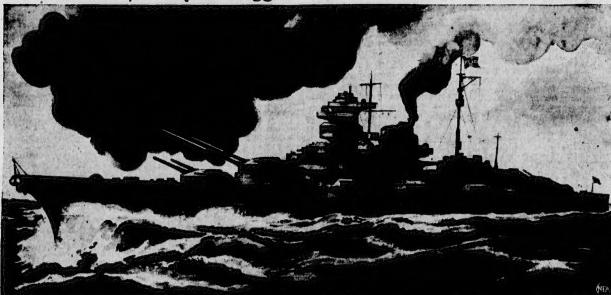

American officers are shown ducking shrapnel in a foxhole on Bataan. The long awaited Japanese attack under Lieut. General Tomoyuki Yamashita came on April Fools' eve. Left to right are shown Capt. S. N. Little, Sgt. John G. Graham, Lt. P. H. Futiger, and Corp. R. L. Carter.

According to Representative Rich, of Pennsylvania, who brought the case to the attention of the U.S. Congress, Genevieve Samp, above, lost her job in a Detroit war factory because she tried to do more work than the average employee.

Germany's Tirpitz--Biggest Threat To Allies In Atlantic

Holed up in a Norwegian fjord at Trondheim, Germany's new 35,000 (?)-ton battleship Tirpitz, biggest Axis warship in Europe, remains a potential threat to Allied war vessels and aid routes to the Atlantic. Above is an artist's conception of this sister ship of the late Bismarck.

Montrealers Smash Up Enemy Flotilla

Swooping down in roaring relays, cannon going full blast, Canadian pilots have been gratulated by the Admiralty for the way they left an enemy E-boat flotilla a mass of wreckage during a daring attack off The Netherlands coast. Among the heroes of the action are, Pilot Officers John Brookhouse, Montreal, and Richard Ellis, of Montreal, both kneeling in the picture. Their flying comrades are Sgts. W. G. T. MacKay, of Montreal and Sgt. W. F. McCarthy of Ottawa, standing; the dog, their mascot.

Buck Private

Private Warren Pershing, above, only son of General John J. Pershing, commander of the AEF in World War I, is shown pushing a wheelbarrow at Fort Belvoir, Va., after a session with a pick and shovel. Young Pershing, 32, left his New York brokerage house two months ago to enroll as a buck private.

Answering Country's Call

These smiling London girls are now recruits in the twenty and twenty-one age classes of the British Women's Auxiliary Territorial Service who have just been called up for service. They were photographed shortly after their arrival in camp and are shown with duffel bags slung over their shoulders, on their way to their living quarters.

Sir Thomas Chapais, son of one of the fathers of Confederation, Sir Thomas has been a member of the Quebec Legislative Council since March 18, 1892, and was honored by colleagues on his golden anniversary. He is a member of the Dominion Senate to which he was called in 1919.

This Story Is 2,000 Times Old To Malta

Smoke from Axis bombs rises over Malta, probably the most bombed place of the war, with more than 2,000 air raids on the tiny British island in the Mediterranean.

Indians Sing For London Children

These London children, orphaned by the blitz, are being entertained by two Cree Indians, A. B. Ward and Joe DaCino (with guitar) both serving with the Canadian forces in England. The men sang hill-billy songs for the children, and gifts of clothing purchased with money by Indians living on the Old Crow Reserve, Northern Yukon, were presented by the Rt. Hon. Vincent Massey, Canada's High Commissioner in London.

CHAPTER XXXIX
DID Red wave and Red took charge

Even though Peter protested with all his determination he had, Red paid him no heed. "I know you should lie there and get some sleep and I'm to see that you do it. Doc, come in here. Let's see what until he gets back from the sheriff and the sheriff's posse I'm the law and I'm in command."

"Doc, give you one alternative. We're here to all the same. Doe says he isn't at all sure whether he's going to pull this off though."

"Peter, M.D. in San Francisco who knows all about poisons and antidotes. Does going to telephone him now? He'll be back here in a plane. Doc won't be gone more than an hour and my full job is to make your two bandages ready."

"I don't want to rest," Peter said.

"Ten or fifteen minutes will be enough. Red, I've got to help him find Judy."

"There's plenty of time for you to go in and reason with her. You know she's alive."

"How do I know such a thing?" Peter demanded.

TAKING HER ALONG

"If they mean to get rid of her, they'd have left her. wouldn't they? They wouldn't have gone to all the trouble of taking her along with them."

"Maybe he's maybe so." Red said, his voice sounding a wretched.

"Don't forget that they don't know this country very well. We know where we are and of course mountains around it don't we?" Peter said.

"That's right."

"Well," Red shrugged his shoulders nonchalantly, "get your shotgun, Peter. I'll be after them just as soon as you do."

But Red was far more optimistic than the case warranted. He had been to the mystery of Judy Baner's disappearance from the Dinkes household twice before, and each time he had not a single clew had the sheriff and his posse uncovered.

During the remainder of the night, the three cars had made an absolute and complete getaway. Not a single person had been seen who had seen them depart; nor a single person who had observed them driving the right-way in whichever direction they might have gone.

CLUES

These cars and five people, a girl, a daughter of a Chicago millionaire, a mysterious woman who had married one of the richest men in the country, Mrs. Mabel, a reputable and famous physician of Los Angeles, a plain-eyed, irreducible old maid, Mrs. Anna, and her husband and his wife, Rhua, had disappeared as completely and as entirely as if the earth had opened down the middle and swallowed all traces of them.

It was a mystery, indeed, right all of the way up standing. Such things had happened before. There were vast tracts of areas of the country where nothing could be found or a car lost, and the mystery of its contents hidden for decades.

But the three automobiles and five persons to disappear so completely without leaving a single trace was a great mystery.

MUCH RESTED

Peter was very much rested when he awoke. His head ached still and his body was very sensitive to the touch, but in an instant his mind was alert, remembering all that had happened.

Looking around the room Peter saw that he sat in an easy chair reading his interminable west magazine.

"It was a mystery, indeed, right all of the way up standing."

"Peter dozed, "and I hope you'll be doing the same of the time," Red laughed. "Well, you haven't quite made yourself out a second hand, but you can't tell just how you have been graded to the world about 24 hours."

"You haven't been here all the time, have you?" Red asked. "I should say not. I had a little talk with myself, in fact, in the quiet moments and I've read several exciting stories, but nothing any more exciting than has been going on around the world."

Peter was going into his clothes.

"Have you got any trace of them yet?"

NO TRACE

"Not as you'd notice it," Red said, bringing the paper he had up to date in Peter's mind. "The sheriff and a posse of police, a regular army of detectives from Chicago and Santa Fe are on the trail but there hasn't been a single clew of what happened in the house."

"Detectives from Chicago and Santa Fe?"

"That's right," Red said. "They've taken over the house here and part of the bunk hall. The girl's father is here, too."

"Another man?" Peter asked, sending a shiver through his body, but he decided that Peter might as well know the truth right now.

"Follow by the way of Orwood Road," Red said. "Mrs. Ferguson, too. She's in love with Judy. He says they were engaged to be married and she was on some kind of vacation with him."

"Who is my mother?" Peter asked. "He could bear to carry on that other line of conversation just now."

NOT WELL

"He's not well. I think he looks like death, which I seem to him. This girl got into a bad accident and that doctor from San Francisco has been here to see him. He's starting to get better."

This place has turned into a regular hotel and hospital as well as a residence. Peter had read the story about the disappearance on the front page of every newspaper in the United States."
